WOODVILLE

SATURDAY, DE JULY 18, 1846 . CONCEALED WEAPONS.

stow many lamentable, commentaries has this country this county, this community had upon the barbarous cus-tom of carrying deadly weapons. Year after year, month after month, the custom and its necessary result prevails. Men are butchered in our streets; in our walks we tread on the spattered blood of our fellow men and friends, untill the moral sensibility of the community is blunted and case-hardened to such a degree that, while the stealing of a borne would unquestionably subject the delinquent to the orderled a rope and a pine limb, the assumm walks the streets a brave men, justified in the eyes of the law, scathless and from. Now let us not be understood in this article as meaning to accuss only a few individuals. We have no personal annities to gratify and do not latend to wound any individual beyond his share. We strike at the code and practice of the whole community as touching this point. It is wrong, and outrageous. From the Legislatre-down to the littlest and lowest, there is an entirely false contiment prevailing. It requires no argument, it admile of none to prove that the custom of carrying bowis anives is an offence against moral sentiment and the publie peace.. True, the public looks complacently upon it True the Legislature in its great wisdom and morality legalizes it by placing a contentible ten of own DOLLAR op-on a bowle knife, when it ought to make it a Penitentiary offence to wear one. But all this cannot make it right. "It so offends against the plainest principles of law and order, of moral right and common sense, of civilization and justice, that it seems an axiom self evident.

Yet the Legislature legalizes it, legalizes bloodshed and surder, mow! Every one knows for what the bowie knife was lavested, and is manufactured. Nobody will be fool enough to say it is made or worn for any purpose except to back human flesh. Ittis not an ornament, it is not a convenience. It is an instrument of revenge and worn as such. The Legislature allows every man, for a doller a year, to wear one. Now whatever is taxed we suppose is legal to its ownership and use. The Legislature not only legalizes the use of this "infernal machine" by taxing s, but it goes, further and by express statute authorizes men to wear them! Oh potent seignive, oh we veons of clomon and Scient

Yet upwise and reprehensible as is such a law, the com. munity could in a measure remedy this shameful evil, were rrs feeling and practice right. Men profess to be brave. yet they dare not whisper above their breath, even when they think it, the name of the deed; Mum! is the wordsilence the principle of action. Thus whatever turpit ude attaches to the act, matters not, the community expresses normainles-men took blank but speak not, and unwhipt villainy etellis should boid and branen, against where fame no one dares whisper what his heart feels, except in his was private room with the keyhole guarded.

"is this state of feeling continued to any class or sect or party or clique! No! it is tike the breath we breathe-we are all guilty. The writer of this takes home his full sh and while he hopes to make no eremies by thus speaking out, he is bound to my "the truth before friends."

Patriot, has the good of your country no claims, Philanthropist, has human suffering no e oquence, that ye stand SHART all the day and intimate not your deep abhorras of this disgrace of humanity?

Christian, ARE you a Christian-and are you a shining light in the world while the candle that truth and conscience lights up in your bosom urging you to cry sloud, is hidden under the bushel of expediency or snuffed out by cowardly silence?

Minister of God, is your mission fullfilled when from the almost simighty pulpit your denunciations have been utterred and wasted against theories and creeds and trifling errors that neither make nor mar the soul, while sim that glara the community in the face, are left untouched to feater and putrefy and paison the public taste and morals and safty? But if truth can be heralded from no other source, we are determined whatever may be the result, to speak truly and plainly, exercising the right which every froeman, with a character and interests and life and salfrespect to protect possesses. We want the community to put down by its decided and supressed soutiment this cut throat law among us that has dathreased all other law. We take our stand-we plant our stepdard. If the right thinking and right feeling -of which there are a plenty to accomplish it if they will act son fit to gather around and sustain us -well. If not we have done our stuty.

A CORRECTION. The article refered to below was published upon the authority of one of the volunteers. Had no statements been supposed unress they would not have bonn addmitted. We insert the com nunication of Cal. Cooper, as a matter of justice, thanking no man far mis-

The assertion conveys a pharge against Mr. David forgods which is grocally slanderous; and it is a metter of steep regret that such false and newscreatable uses from should have found orientees by self-our. We beheld to place of their escape on perferdey morning, and so next and effective was their pien. that the miraculous secapes of the famous Jack Sheppard from the prison of Newgate, were sreibly brought to our mind. We could not help exlarming, as we entered their cell, that we "trond alone some prises hall deserted," se solitary and lenely seemed the place. They had sawed two of the burs of the window grate, making an opening about the size of a man's body, and tastening a blanket to the upper bars. they "declined the agony" of lunger remetaling prisoners. So slick and grossy appeared the hole and blankets that it seemed as though all the bears and 'coops of Crockett-dom had been sliding through and over them: laving reached the ground, they scaled the walls aparently without using ram's horse on them, or ever earing the scate of their breeches. They "inglerious-17 fl d," les ving the 'illustrious' hounds of juctice to "folw in their footesteps."

writing. A great dearth spreads over the land. There is no news. This is the more grievous to be borne, since we have become so accustomed to accounts of bombardments of forts and cities, gullant charges of pers just as it happens. dragonns, spiking of cannon, hair breadth escupes, the deadly charges of the bayonet, the murderous fire of crillesy, the advance of battling hosts, the shout of triumph, and disorderly route, our ears have been almost riunned without bursts of patriotism, the rattling fthe dram, accounts of volunteering bosts becomin armies of occupation of our own territory, and the arramhie for office of those who are very willing to take as much honor with as little chance for scars as possible for their country and their pocket's sake.

it i hard to come down to the flat state, and unprofitsble seriebling about stocks that we own not, and stock private in the 4th regiment was come up to, who jobbers that we kenw not.

only that the volunteers are knee deep in mud and ade commenced; and was a ven ran in Napoleon's water, without tents, many of them, 'drenched with continual raise and no Mexicans to kill conquer or court. "Old Zach" is bothered almost to death for transports, the steamers that have gone there, bring generally those that are fit only for cel pots and aligator esges, wormesten, rotten, rosty—their boilers somplete sieves for sifting out hot destruction upon the living valor that may embark on board of them. The first eand bar they touch knocks daylight, or rather, mud and water through them and they at once go to the devil where their owners ought to precede them, for thus risking the life of brave men in such condemned hulks.

Sickness is rife among the volunteers-one eight h of the privates being on the sick list. Can. Taylor has ought out of one difficult position. we hope he may be ahie to swim out of his present. Would it not be a good idea for Gov. Marcy to send metend of tente; a few thousand life preservers—well patched—that the soldi ers may be enabled to float above water?

First Regiment of Mississippi Folunteurs.

In the absence of mails, we give upon verbal inform tion, such items concerning the Mississippi Regiment, as we have been able to gather;

The Volunteers passed down on Sunday and Monday ast upon the steemers Corn, Talms and others. They stopped at Baton Rouge for their arms, but were no permitted to land. They are said to be encamped upon the "Battle Ground" below New Orleans. We doubt this, because the battle ground is under cultivation. If they are there; that have probably small "the blood of an Englishman's are this, which perhaps will whe t their appetite for the elatet of a Maxican. They are sported well and well behaved. Our company are solun of as behaving very soldierliks. And so we resums are the other companies. The whole Regievent has been pronounced by some of the U. S. offlorrs, "the very best they have seen." Its ten companies will prove a ten pin-ally not easily bowled down by Mexican bells. Give the boys a chance and we dere predict they will make a ten strike that will astonish the outives.

The order of the campaign is said to be this: teen Paylor is ordered to murch as to Mexico. Gen. Wool under shom will serpe the Mississippi Regimentwill keep things quiet in the cear of the main army, by ccupying the departments on the Ble Grande, and len, Kenracy, we suppose, in armente on Santa Per and take passession of california. The war between the United States and Mex co engrosses public attention. The victories of the Americans on the Rio Grand has changed public feelings, both in Eunland and France, from sympathy for the Mexicans to costempt: This change of opinion, however, in as unjust to the Americans. The Nexicans deserve much credit for their gallant stand, and it was only the superior fact and energy of General Taylou and his brave little army that averthraw them.

lay upon the battle field with both legs shot off. From the seat of Peace-the Rio Grand, we hear He was one of the first that fell after the cannon ware. After having escaped in the terrible conflicts of Austerliez and Wagram, and in the retreat from Moscow, and the battle of Westerloo, he lived to fall on the Palo Alto, from a cannon shut from a Mexican battery. As his fellow soldiers passed him and noticed at every pulsation of his heart that the blood flowed from his wounds. they stopped an instant to sympathise with him, the noble hearted fellow, as his eyes were giazing in death, waved them on, and with his last breath said, "go comrades, I have only got what a soldier collete for."
